An ambition that became a benchmark

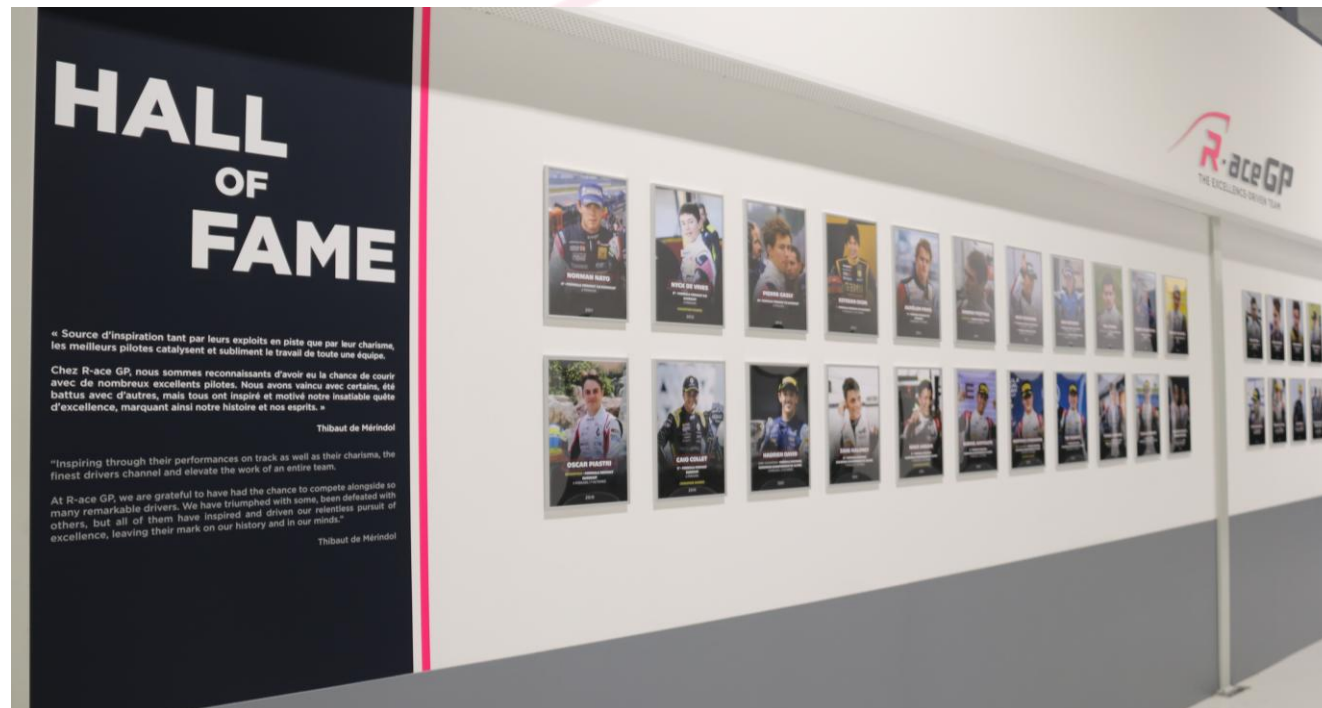

It all began when two motorsport-passionate engineers, Thibaut de Méringol and Cyril Comte, decided to launch their own racing team in 2011: R-ace GP.

A shared vision quickly became obvious: built on their Formula Renault experience and driven by a common demand for performance. From that moment, the team earned a reputation as one that doesn't just produce fast drivers, but tomorrow's champions.

R-ace GP has established itself at the highest level with Driver and Team Championship titles. Successes have piled up, so have the trophies in the office.

Today, R-ace GP is more than just a high-performing team. It is a true reference in training the future champions of motorsport.

At R-ace GP, winning is a culture.
